NEGRO ASSAILANT MAKES CONFESSION

Fiends Who Attacked Mrs. Burnley Coleman and Daughter now in Jail

GREAT EXCITEMENT.

Richmond and Fredericksburg Soldiers Ordered to Hold Themselves in Readiness.

(Special Dispatch to the Gazette)

Richmond July 15—John Lewis Rollings, a negro who was arrested near Bowling Green following an assault upon Mrs. Burnley Coleman Sunday nightt, today confessed his crime while awaiting a hearing before the grand jury at Bowling Green.

Rollings implicated George Matthews, another negro, who is also under arrest, being held in the Richmond jail.

Rollins was taken from Henrico County jail to Bowling Green early today.

Rallins on being arrainged for trial at Bowling Green after his confession, pleaded guilty. Sentence was deferred in order that Rollings might be used as a witness against Matthews. The latter, after the trial started, broke down and confessed. At 1:30 court took recess for dinner. The trial of Matthews will be concluded this afternoon, and both men will be sentenced to the death chair before dark.

Much excitement prevails in the neighborhood of the crime.

Company B, of Richmond, and company L, of Fredericksburg, were ordered to hold themselves in readiness to go to Bowling Green in case of trouble. It was said early this afternoon that their presence would not be needed.

Mrs. Burnley Coleman, aged fifty, and her daughter, Eula, aged twenty-five, were attacked when alone in their home at Rappahannock Aacdemy, early last Sunday night.

Their recollections of the night are vague. They remember being awakened in their upstairs rooms by presence of negro men in their bed room. A vigorous fight ensued the women screaming and resisting. The negroes were forced from the room into the hall, and the door was barricaded with a chiffonier.

The negroes went from the house supposedly through the kitchen window, which they had forced in entering.

Then to intimidate the women from further calling to neighbors for help bricks were hurled through the windows of the room.

A ladder was used, presumably to reenter the room. Mrs. Coleman and her daughter pushed the ladder from its place repeatedly in face of flying bricks and breaking glass, until the noise of the struggle brought T. Steven, a neighbor, to the scene.

All occurred in the darkness and the woman have not yet positively identified the apprehended negroes as their assailants.

LIGHTNING KILLS AT 'PHONE.

Reading Pa., July 15.—At the height of the most severe electric storm of the season Tuesday night lightning struck the home of the Magnolia Club on Mt. Penn, killed Edwin J. Leisman and stunned his mother and Henry Upperman. Leismann was sitting in the kitchen near a telephone, and when his father had relighted one of four lamps that the bolt extinguished the son's body was found on the floor. The only marks on the body were a few streaks across the breast.

TOWN UNDER WATER.

Rosendale, Mo., Flooded by Sudden Rise in River—Corning Situation Worse.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 15.—The flood situation at Corning, Mo., where a dyke protecting the town from the Tarkio River broke Tuesday, forcing the inhabitants to seek high places, was more serious yesterday. The dyke, one mile long, had been washed away and water was pouring into every building.

Those of the inhabitants who did not flee to the hills have congregated in upper stories of buildings. Among the refugees in Corning are amuber of farmers' families driven from their homes by the flood.

It was still raining at Corning today. The town is cuto ff from railroad and telephone communication.

An appeal for help has been sent out from Rosendale, Mo., a village of several hundred inhabitants, 25 miles north of here. A sudden rise of four feet in 102 river today put the entire town under water and it was reported that a further rise of seven feet was coming as a result of heavy rains above there today.

Efforts are being made to get a train within reach of the town so that the inhabitants may be conveyed to it in boats. There were fears that farmers in bottom lands might not bea ble to reach points of safety.

SOUGHT PEACE WITH SERBIA.

Rome Says Austria's Overtures Were Rejected.

Rome, via Paris, July 15.—A semi-official announcement published in Rome to the effect that when Italy's entrance into the conflict appeared inevitable Austria-Hungary first attempted to make a separate peace with Serbia and then tried to conclude an armistice, which would allow her to remove her troops from the Serbian frontier, is causing a deep impression in Italy.

Although these negotiations only leaked out in the present semi-official announcement, considering the caution of the Italian Foreign Office, it is taken by the Italian press to indicate that the Italian Government possesses the proofs of its assertions.

RESCUE WORKS KILLS THREE.

Gas Explodes as Men Try to Reach Two Overcome Workers.

Johnstown, Pa., July 15.—Eli Skadish, Stanko Wiczska and Michael Radovich lost their lives and six other men, two of whom were C. H. McCloskey and Harold Williams, were badly injured by an explosion of gas at the benzol plant of the Cambria Steel Company last night. The plant, which is the outcome of the invention of Thomas A. Edison in the manufacture of benzol recently given wide publicity, is being improved in order to double its capacity, and one of the improvements consisted of the erection of a new stack.

Skadish went into the stack and was overcome by gas. Radovich followed and also was overcome. Both men clutched an iron bar so firmly that fellow workmen found it impossible to break their holds. The bar extended to the exterior of the stack and the workmen finally decided that if the end were struck with as ledge the grips of the men might be jarred loose.

Radovich wielded the sledge. A spark set off the gas in the interior and the three men were instantly killed, Radovich being blown 25 feet by the force of the explosion. The others were found dead when the interior was explored. McCloskey was terribly burned on the face.

ARREST PAN-SLAVIC LEADER

Dr. Raschin Member of National Diet, Held in Prague

Prague, July 15—Dr. Raschin, prominent Czech, Pan-Slavism leader and president of the powerful Czech newspaper, Narodni Listy, has been arrested, is it announced.

Only recently Dr. Raschin was elected to the Austrian diet. Twenty years ago he was sentenced to prison for political reasons.

Czech leaders, since the beginning of the war, have been promoting a movement for Bohemian nationalism. Rumors of wholesale arrests have been circulated in London but this is the first report from an Austro-German source.

EDITORS GATHER AT NEWPORT NEWS

City Entertaining Virginia Press Association Which Met Today

PROGRAM ARRANGED.

Local Newspapers and Chamber of Commerce Are Making Visit of Writers Most Enjoyable.

Newport News, Va., July 15—The editors of the press of Virginia, accompanied by their wives and daughters, are in this city for the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Virginia Press Association, which began this morning in the auditorium of the Warwick Hotel, which will be headquarters during the three days' session. The coming of the editors and the entertainment which will be accorded them, is one of the festivities of the year which marks the celebration of the nineteenth anniversary of Newport News, the city having been incorporated, with a population of 9,000 souls, on January 20, 1896.

S. R. Buxton, former Mayor, delivered the address of welcome. He delivered the keys of the city over to George O. Greene, president of the Virginia Press Association.

When the business session opens at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning Miss Bertha Gray Robinson, one of the editors of the Orange Observer and historian of the Virginia Press Association, will read two papers, one a review of the activities and changes in the newspaper field of Virginia during the past twelve months, and the other some witty comment on the peculiarities of prominent newspaper workers of the State. Mrs. E. W. Bissell, of the Staunton News, will read a paper on "The Press of Yesterday and To-day," which promises to be interesting as well as valuable in the historical data it will contain.

At 11 o'clock through the courtesy of the Newport News and Hampton Railway, Gas and Electric Company, the visitors will be taken on a tour of historical spots and points of interest along the Virginia Peninsula, finishing up at Buckroe Beach, where they will be the guests of the management at a fish dinner. This will be followed by bathing, fishing and other amusements, such as that popular resort affords. An address will be delivered by John Temple Graves, formerly of Georgia, now editorial writer on the New York American, at 8 o'clock in the Olympic Theater. Following the address the local lodge of Elks will give a stag party.

Saturday, the final day, will be featured by the election of officers at 9 o'clock, followed by a visit to the mammoth plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. At 1 o'clock they will be the guests of the shipbuilding company at luncheon at the Warwick Hotel. Harry R. Houston, candidate for Speaker of the House of Delegates, will deliver an address. Vice-President and General Manager H. L. Ferguson, of the shipbuilding company, will speak on "The Merchant Marine," and Col. W. S. Copeland, editor of the Times-Herald, will also speak.

Following the luncheon the party will be accorded a steamboat tour of the Chesapeake Bay, through the courtesy of the shipbuilding company. On the return a stop will be made at Old Point Comfort, where those who desire to spend Sunday at Hotel Chamberlin may leave the steamer. Those desiring to return to their homes will be brought back to Newport News in time to catch the late trains.

At the meeting held in Alexandria last summer there was a marked increase in the membership, and Secretary Hart's report will show the Virginia Press Association to be gaining in influence and power each year.

NOTICE

Beginning on Saturday, July 17th., the Washington Southern Railway Freight Station, will be closed at 1 o'clock on Saturdays.

THAW DECLARED SANE

Slayer of Sanford White will Probably be Liberated

New York, July 15—Harry K. Thaw was yesterday declared sane.

The jury called to advise Justice Hendrick on his present mental condition, after forty-five minutes' deliberation, unanimously agreed that Thaw is entitled to restoration to liberty and citizenship.

Justice Hendrick immediately remanded Thaw into the custody of Sheriff Grifenhagen, and today he heard argument on a motion to vacate the order committing him to Matteawan. Decision on this argument will probably be announced tomorrow morning. It is generally believed the Justice will free Thaw.

On the presumption that Justice Hendrick will be guided by the unanimous view of the twelve men he summoned to advise him, it is learned that Attorney General Woodbury will take an appeal in behalf of the state, pending the result of which Thaw will be released on bail.

Bail to the amount of $40,000 is ready for Thaw, this sum having been agreed upon.

With the vindication of Thaw's sanity assured by the verdict of the jury, Mrs. Thaw's battle for her son represents a total expenditure of almost $2,000,000.

The two murder trials cost the Thaws a round million, and in addition $350,000 has been spent in the subsequent proceedings to have the ban of insanity lifted.

The estimated cost of the State for the Thaw litigation has been $48,000

POSSE KILLS NEGRO

Alleged Slayer of Three Whites Defied Them Even After Home is Dynamited

Macon Ga., July 15—A posse of citizens and county officers yesterday shot and killed Peter Jackson, a negro, accused of killing three white men near Cochran, Ga. The negro had barricaded himself in his home and defied the posse who, according to reports received here, blew up the house with dynamite. Jackson, it was stated, continued firing after his house was dynamited, and he then was shot down.

The dead white men are: W. S. Hogg, aged 40, night marshal; Lynn Sanders, 40, farm supervisor, and Oscar Lawson, 23, a farm hand.

Jackson, according to reports, was criticised by Sanders late Tuesday for some work he had done and the supervisor is said to have struck the negro. Later, it is alleged, Jackson accosted Sanders, drew a pistol and fired twice, one bullet entering Sander's heart, killing him almost instantly.

Early yesterday Hogg and Lawson went to Jackson's home to arrest him, when, it is alleged, the negro fired upon them with a shotgun. They died shortly afterwards.

BOMBS ON CAMP

A Daring Feat by the Italian Aerial Squadron Attacking Austrians Behind Gorizia

Milan, July 15—A brilliant feat has been accomplished by the Italian flight squadron, which attacked the large Austrian camp behind Gorizia dropping high explosives from a height of 2,000 feet which means that the daring aviators exposed themselves to shells aimed from the Austrian batteries. The object of the raid was attained and the aviators returned in safety.

The Austrian authorities in the first six weeks of the war inaugurated such a reign of terror both in Trentino and Istria that out of 900,000 inhabitants of the two provinces only 200,000 are now left. The rest have either hurriedly emigrated to Italy or have been driven by the Austrians out of their homes to places further in the interior of Austria, while many have been arrested or taken on suspicions to camps of concentration.

STOUTLY DEFEND NAVAL ACADEMY

Hay and Bushnell Argue Before Inquiry Court at Annapolis

Faith Expressed in High Standards of Honor—Robert Moss Closes Case for Original Defendants.

Annapolis, Md., July 15—Before the court of inquiry at Annapolis yesterday much progress was made, and there is no doubt that the arguments for the defendants will be closed today. The judge advocate will then close for the government.

The defense of Midshipman R. M. Nelson, whose achievements as a scholar and admitted readiness to help other midshipmen with their studies, as well as the fact that he is the only member of the graduating class recommended for dismissal, have made him the most interesting figure of the proceedings, was made by N. P. Bushnell, of Peekskill, N. Y., the home of Midshipman Nelson. Mr. Bushnell argued that not only had the government failed to show that any of the defendants had been parties to a theft of the examination papers but that the overwhelming evidence, including the testimony of many midshipmen called by the judge advocate, proved that they did not suspect the character of the papers when they fell into their hands.

The additional charges against Midshipmen Nelson, Mr Bushnell said, were that he had entered the academy building to find his marks, that he owned a key which would open department doors, and that he had taken some turbine sheets from the department. He argued that the ragging of marks was a schoolboy prank which was punished lightly by the academy authorities, and that the key in Nelson's possession had been borrowed by him to open a room where he could use a typewriter. He urged that the turbine sheets were of no value to Nelson, but had been used by him in other midshipmen's interest.

Representative Hay stated at the opening of his remarks that he had been informed by Secretary Daniels that he would adopt the findings of the court of inquiry as to the guilt or innocence of any midshipman, and he expressed his confidence in the fairness of the court's action. Mr. Hay praised the Navy, and expressed his belief in the high standards of honor among the midshipmen. He argued that the midshipmen's actions in handling the papers openly, instead of capying them and destroying the originals, showed that they did not suspect their character. Robert Moss, father of Midshipman James E. Moss, the recipient of the papers, closed the case for the original defendants.

George D. Price, of Charleston, W. Va., argued the case of Midshipman A. C. Rodgers, R. L. Walker and George R. Price, the latter his son. The evidence against these midshipmen was that translations in the handwriting of Rogers were found near the examination room, and the answers of Walker and Price were found to be similar, in some cases. It was argued that the midshipmen had possession of the information which was common throughout the classes, and that Rogers had translated it for Walker and Price. These translations, it was claimed, were thrown away by the two midshipmen before they entered the examination room.

Statements in their own behalf were read to the court by Midshipmen H. H. Harrison, W. J. Confer, A. D. Struble and R. Burhen, all members of the class which graduated last month. The evidence against Harrison was that he secured a copy of the advanced information, constituting most of the examination, from Wessell, who was in the hospital, and distributed it to various members of the class. Harrison explained that he secured the information, believing it to be founded on matter given out in the class by Prof. Cusachs, and that he continued to hold this belief until after the examinaton.

Midshipmen Confer, Struble and Burhen were all implicated in the case by the statement of Commander Traut that the memoranda in their handwriting had been found near the examination room. All of them denied that they had taken any of these into the room, and they pointed to the later testimony of Commander Traut in which he stated that the answers of these midshipmen indicated that they had not made use of the memoranda.

BALKANS PREPARE FOR ACTOIN

Bulgar Envoy Confer with Roumanain Minister in Rome Regarding Question

Rome July 15—Daily conferences between the new Bulgarian Minister Stunicioff and the Roumanian Minister Chika at the Roumanian legation here, strengthened the report that Bulgaria, Roumania and Greece are preparing for joint action either by joining the allies or announcing their neutrality for the remander of the war. The two ministers had a lengthy conference today but attaches declared Stunicioff was merely paying a friendly call.

Advices from Athens today report that the meeting of the Greek parliament on July 20, when the 'war party' of ex-Premier Venizelos was to have come into power, probably will be postponed because of the coutlnued illness of King Constantine.

The Roma Tribuna says the Kings of Bulgaria and Roumania, accompanied by their foreign ministers, are planning to go to Athens to confer on the Balkan situation with King Constantine.

As all three kings are personally opposed to intervention, only the arguments of their ministers, that it is necessary to safeguard the interest of their countries, will force their hands.

BANKER KILLS HIMSELF.

Arthur George Sedgwick Ends Life Four Days After Associate.

Pittsfield, Mass., July 15.—Arthur George Sedgwick, of New York, and Stockbridge, Mass., retired banker and broker and author of several books, committed suicide in a hotel here by shooting himself through the temple, just four days after his most intimate friend, Daniel Le Roy Dresser, killed himself in New York.

Members of his family say Sedgwick had been ill several years, and lately his condition had been growing worse. He had also been despondent since the death of Dresser, of whom he was a business associate as well as a friend.

Early yesterday he drove to Pittsfield in his car and engaged a room. He retired at once, and nothing was heard from him until about 2 o'clock, when a maid heard a shot. The hotel clerk and a porter found Sedgwick lying dead on the floor.

WOMAN KICKED TO DEATH.

Killed by Sick Horse She Was Doctoring in Stable.

Dover, Del., July 15.—Mrs. Howard Virden, wife of West Dover's tax collector, while looking after a sick horse in the stable on the farm yesterday afternoon, was kicked by the animal, and was found some time later by her husband, with her head and face battered almost beyond recognition. While it was thought life was still present when she was carried from these table to the house, she died before the arrival of a physician.

Fatal Plunge.

Philadelphia, July 15.—Either jumping or falling from the third-story window of his boarding house, at No. 108 Monroe street yesterday, Solomon Mozer, 22 years old, met death on the sidewalk below, and, in his descent, almost crushed Mrs. Mary McClister, a neighbor, who was sitting on the steps. So close did the young man's body come to Mrs. Clister that his arm struck her shoulder, and a second later his body was spread out at her feet.

BRITAIN FACES SERIOUS TROUBLE

120,000 Miners Walk out in Defiance of the Government

DISREGARD LEADERS.

Men Allege They Have Struck Against Organized Greed—Collieries Making Hugh Fortunes

Cardiff, Wales, July 15—The British government today faced the most serious internal trouble since the beginning of the war.

In open defiance of the government's threat to enforce the war munitions act, practically every coal miner in the South Wales collieries quit work today. It is estimated that 120,000 persons were made idle by the walk out.

The men walked out against the advice of the advice of the majority of their leaders, who urged that that they defer action pending the decison of the executive body of the South Wales Federation of Miners today.

By their action they practically dared the government to proceed under the new munitions act and attempt to collect the $25 a day fine imposed on each striker who quits work without awaiting arbitration and interferes with the production of munitions of war.

The walk-out came at a time when it appeared probable that the difficulties between the miners and the colliery owners would be settled.

The executive council of the federation was expected today to reach a decision with the government by whicr terms of arbitration would be agreed upon.

Newport, on the Irish Sea, reported the first distress today as the result of the coal miners' dispute. Practically all the railway lines carrying coal to the docks were suspended and a number of vessels arriving in the harbor for coal were forced to lie idle.

The strike probably will last only until the end of this week, the miners said today. In the meantime they believe an investigation by the government will prove their claims well founded.

"We do not want to embarass the government," said one strike leader today. "But we believe now is the time to strike against organized greed.

"The colliery owners are making huge profits out of the war. We know that they plan to close their pits indefinitely when their coffers are filled at the end of the struggle and starve us into submission to their terms. All we ask is a fair deal for our men and their families."

MURDER FOLLOWS QUARREL.

Man Fatally Stabbed by Wife Admits he Struck Her And Threw Teacup.

Philadelphia, July 15.—During a quarrel in his home Tuesday night, Louis Lista, 46 years old, of North street below Carpenter was stabbed twice below the heart by his wife, Rosa, and died an hour later in the Pennsylvania Hospital. In an antemortem statement, taken by Magistrate Toughill Lista declared the quarrel started over his inability to obtain work. He admitted striking his wife when he returned home and found no supper prepared for him, but said he struck the woman only after she had taunted him about being a "loafer." The woman fled from the house when she saw her husband bleeding on the floor, Lista said, and has not been seen since.

LIPSCOMB'S STATEMENT

Alexandria Merchants Interested in Examiner's Announced Intentions Concerning Taxation.

Alexandria merchants are wrought up by the announcement made to them yesterday by W. N. Lipscomb, examiner of records of the Sixteenth Judicial Circuit of Virginia, that it is the intention of the State authorities to collect back taxes on the difference between their actual purchases made during the past five years and thea mount of their purchases as reported by them to the commissioner of revenue. A special meeting of the Retail Merchants Association will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce at which time it is expected plans will be decided upon by the merchants for meeting the statements of the State authorities.

For many years it has been the custom of the Alexandria merchants to report their purchases in the same manner as that in effect over the entire state at from one third to one-half of the actual amount and this has been accepted by the commissioners. With the change in the tax laws this year the full amount of the purchases were required and the merchants generally have complied with the provisions of the law. Now it is declared by the state authroities that corrected reports must be made for the past five years. In addition to the trouble caused by making up a list of purchases extending over this period local merchants will be compelled to pa many thousands of dollars into the state treasury.

THOMAS'S BODY FOUND

Rises to River's Surface Before Swimmer at Foot of King Street Last Night.

The body of Benjamin Thomas, colored, who was drowned in the dock between Prince and Duke streets about nine o'clock last Monday night, was discovered floating in the river over a square north of the scene of the drowning by Ashby Reardon while the latter was swimming in the river, about nine o'clock last night. The spot where Thomas disappeared is a few yards from the channel of the river, and it is supposed the suction of the steamer Southland from Norfolk which passed nearby early next morning drew the body out into the stream.

The remains were conveyed to an undertaking establishment where they were prepared for burial. Doctor T. M. Jones, the coroner, did not deem an inquest necessary, as there is every reason to believe that the drowning of Thomas was due to an accident.

It is generally supposed he was seized by cramps after making a dive from the wharf. Several colored people were on the pier at the time, some of whom were eating crabs, and were paying no attention to Thomas, but when he failed to climb on the wharf after a certain time they began a search for him.

During this time of the year many white and coolred youths enjoy swimming in the river. Some of them tempt providence by making dives from sheds and other high places. About a week ago t wo colored boys went aboard a schooner which was anchored a few yards south of the old transfer slip of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at the foot of Wilkes street, and after climbing about sixty feet up the foremost one made a dive into the river and the other jumped. Both escaped injury.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES

Passenger on Steamer Alleges It Was Not Protected Against Assault

The Mount Vernon and Marshall Hall Steamboat Company is named defendant in a suit to recover $10,000 damages, filed in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia by Herbert Dixon, for alleged assault while a passenger on the steamer Charles Macalester.

The plaintiff says he was set upon and assaulted as he was leaving the boat at the Washington wharf and was not afforded the protection by the company to which he was entitled. Employes of the company, he asserts, turned him over to the civil authorities, and he was not given an opportunity to explain that he had not caused the disturbance. He declares he was humiliated before a large gathering by the manner in which he was handled by employes of the company.

PESSIMISM AND OPTIMISM.

Periodicals in Germany devoted to the commercial expansion of the country are assuming the triumph of German arms, but they are not agreed about the effect upon industry and the oversea trade. Thus the conservative Neue Hamburger Borsen Halle takes a disquieting view of the conditions that will prevail after the restoration of peace. The interest on the war loans and pensions is caculated at 2,000,000,000 marks annually. How can prosperity be restored if this debt is to be liquidated? It is admitted that the national capital will be depreciated by the tremendous expenditures during the war, but to what extent cannot now be estimated. It will take many years, if practicable at all, to recover foreign trade lost in the East to Japan and in South America to the United States, not to speak of the difficulty of finding a profitable market in the British possessions and in Russia. The home industries are bound to suffer not only from the loss of thousand of competent workmen killed or mortally wounded in battle, but from the emigration of thousands more who will not submit to reduced wages and increased taxation.

The Hamburg publication does not touch upon the compensating factor of a great indemnity wrung from Great Britain and her allies, a circumstance indicating that it is not over confident that Germany will put her enemies under her feet.

An optimistic survey of the trade and industrial future is taken by Nord und Sud, a standard publication. It has been interviewing the iron founders and mining magnates, who harbor nod oubt of Germany's emergence from the war master of Europe and arbiter of the world's destiny. These leaders of industry are jubilant over the prospect of adding the iron deposits in Northern France to the national resources. The annual output is 10,000,000 tons of ore, which they say, German methods should increase. Coal mines of new territory in France and Belgium are also to be a valuable asset, and German thoroughness will make the most of them. In Antwerp will be acquired a trading port available for the expansion of foreign trade, while Brussels will become an international financial basis, second only in course of time to London. The annexation of Russian Poland will be servicabie for agrarian expansion, German ideas and energy being substituted for Russian inertia and thriftlessness.

Both England and France must part with colonies to a power that will know how to get the last mark out of them, and to those new territories the overflow of German population can be sent to look after the interest of the Fatherland. So Nord und Sud runs on in its complacency. It entertains no doubt that the interest on the war loans can be met without difficulty. It is evidently the opinion of this trade journal that in the European as well as in the foreign markets victorious Germany will maintain her right to the lion's share of profit, making short work of her competitors. The alternative of defeat or a draw for Germany in the war is not considered by any of her economists. There is no one of such little faith as to touch the subject, and speculation about it by the enemy would be laughed to scorn.

THE CASE OF HARRY THAW.

Harry Thaw, the slayer of Stanford White, is about to be liberated. When he shall have been turned loose he will, in all probability, resume the course which led him to take the life of a man he had long detested. His prodigality had exceeded that of the famous "Coal Oil Johnny," who played his part many years ago and died broke.

Thaw was allowed $80,000 a year before he reached his majority. He managed to spend all of that sum annually in riotous living. A single dinner he gave stage beauties on one occasion cost him $50,000, and in a game of poker in Pittsburgh in 1900 he lost $40,000.

The Baltimore American in speaking of the outcome of the insanity trial in New York this week says:

"The chances are that Harry Kendall Thaw will soon get his freedom. He won a decided victory in the New York court yesterday, when a jury decided he is a sane man. It is now nearly nine years since Thaw murdered Stanford White, and his case has been dragged along from court to court until it has become a legal travesty and a scandal. For his crime in Madison Square Garden Thaw deserved punishment. He was not at that time insane enough not to know exactly what he was doing. Thaw went to the garden with the intent of killing White, having long brooded over the architect's brutal treatment of Evelyn Nesbit. But the court decided he was then insane and locked him up in an asylum. Then came his escape and back came his case into the courts, and there is a general hope that it will soon be thrown out for good.

"Thaw does not act like a dangerous man now. His egotism has not left and he has been so long in the limelight that he still likes to have its rays thrown upon him. A devoted mother has spent a fortune on him and probably will continue her generosity, no matter how her son behaves. His wife, now a close associate of another man, has no use for him, nor he for her. The case has from the start been one of the worst of American scandals; a picture in the deepest red, of the effects of reckless life in the metropolis; a picture without a single redeeming feature; a revelation of unbridled passion, of disreputable orgies, of utter disregard of decency, of a profligate waste of money. It is a picture that makes a clean man turn away with disgust and loathing."

MILLENNIAL DREAMS AND ACTUAL FACTS

When the first Great Exhibition was opened in London in 1851 its promoters asserted that the era of universal peace had commenced; and that, influenced by art and commerce, nations would see the folly of war. Thus in so many words it was suggested that what the Gospel had failed in accomplishing, Mammon would succeed in effecting. But far from the Great Exhibition shutting the Temple of Janus, never has there been such fierce and successive wars.

The close of the boastful speeches at the exhibition had scarcely died away when, in 1854, France and England declared war against Russia. The next year England went to war against France and the year following with China in the shameless conflict which ended in foisting opium upon the Celestial Empire and the annexation of Hong Kong to Great Britain. Then came the alliance of France and Sardinia with the object of driving the Austrians out of Italy. Subsequently Prussia and Austria united to coerce Denmark, and when they had succeeded flew at each other's throats about the division of the spoils. After that, in 1870, France and Germany fought each other, and the latter annexed Alsace-Lorraine and made France pay all the expenses of the war.

A bloody war followed seven years later between Russia and Turkey and when that had closed England attacked Egypt. Later France invaded Tunis.

The conflict between England and the Boers, the war between Italy and Turkey and the short but bloody conflict between Russia and Japan are among the events still fresh in the minds of the people of the world.

The Hague Conference, notwithstanding all these grim facts, believed up to about a year ago that the world was about to learn war no more and that arbitration was to take the place of the sword in settling international disputes. The present wholesale conflagration in Europe is a sad commentary upon the delusions of that court.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Four hundrd and fifty thousand square miles of German colonial possessions have been occupied by the Entente Allies during the war.

Col. Jack Faw, 60 years old, for many years a picturesque character in the Bristol region, was killed yesterday by an explosion at Jefferson, N. C.

The captain and four members of the crew of the Swedish schooner Daisy were killed when the vessel was sunk by a mine off Floejtans lighthouse, a day or two ago.

According to a Vatican report there are now about 60,000 Italian ecclesiastics in the Italian army, engaged variously as chaplains, Red Cross workers or soldier officers.

William J. Bryan has given up the idea of being President and had given it up before he retired from President Wilson's cabinet, according to Major J. J. Dickinson, of Washington, now in St. Louis.

By a virtually unnimous vote the bill of rights committee of the New York State Constitutional Convention yesterday decided against proposals to abolish the death penalty by constitutional amendment.

Twenty-four hundred employes of the Rhode Island Company, operating trolley lines throughout the State, went on strike last night. The demands of the men are for batter wages and working conditions.

An order for $80,000,000 worth of shrapnel for the allies—the largest order yet placed in the United States by the warring countries at one time and with any one company—has been closed with the Baldwin Locomotive Works at Philadelphia.

All enemy troops have been withdrawn from Lemberg, owing to the terrible epidemics, cholera in particular, which are raging there. The population of Galicia is starving because the enemy requisitioned everything.

The Italians have captured 2 miles of Austrian trenches in the Carnic Alps. The Alpine troops dragged their artillery to the heights near Roskkefel, which is situated at an altitude of 6,600 feet. The Italians also are said to have captured two important ports south of Gorizia.

Advices from Turkey state that the ter ned. She is confident of victory." olent anti-Greek measures and that "acts of incredible cruelty are being perpetrated upon Greeks in Turkey." Thirty thousand Greeks are reported to have been expected from Turkish towns in the interior and their property plundered.

Despite the action of the British government in applying the munitions of war act to the coal mining industry, which will make the miners subject to severe fines if they strike, it is practically certain that a huge number of men will stop work in South Wales tomorrow, thus curtailing the supply of coal for the naval vessels.

Robert A. Milstead, a bricklayer, of 1211 E street southeast, Washington, was shot through his head with a heavy caliber bullet at his home late last night and later died at the Casualty Hospital. Mrs. Milstead was taken to the hospital with her husband and detained for examination. There is mystery in connection with the shooting.

"France is ready to fight to the bitter end. She is confident of victory." In these words President Poincare yesterday concluded an impassionate patriotic address delivered on the occasion of the removal of the body of Rouget de Lisle, composer of the "Marseilles," from a grave at Choisy-le Roi to its final resting place beside the tomb of Napoleon.

Rioting has already begun at the great war plant of the Remington Union Metallic Cartridge Company at Bridgeport, Conn. Labor leaders say the fighting last night is but a slight indication of what will happen unless the Stewart Construction Company, which is erecting buildings for the Remington Company, will allow the millwrights to become affiliated with the structural iron workers.

A submarine that can cross the Atlantic Ocean and return to New York without stopping for fuel is soon to be added to the U. S. Navy. The new boat, the G-3, is undergoing final tests at the plant of Lake Torpedo Boat Company of Bridgeport, Conn., its builders. It has a proved cruising radius of 5,500 miles at a speed of eleven knots an hour. At a lower rate of speed it can go even farther without replenishing its supply of fuel.

The reports filed by physicians show that there were fewer cases of typhoid by 139 than were reported for the corresponding months in 1914.

Application will be made to the Richmond Council Committee on Charter Changes, which holds its organization meeting tonight, for an amendment to the city charter giving municipal suffrage to women. The women seek a voice in municipal affairs similar to that granted in most States, where provision is made for partial suffrage in school or other local matters.

The Germans dominate the situation solely by force. A coup might save Turkey, but against this contingency the Germans have taken every precaution.

Why Marvin Ordered A Telephone

When Marvin had been married a few days some goods his wife had ordered from a department store got mixed in delivery and he had to spend half hour straightening the matter out.

He then called up the Telephone Company and ordered a telephone installed in his residence. "There, little woman, is your telephone," he said, when it was installed. "Go to it."
